

Draft Your Order

Pick a vendor, let Rundoo suggest quantities, and save it for later.

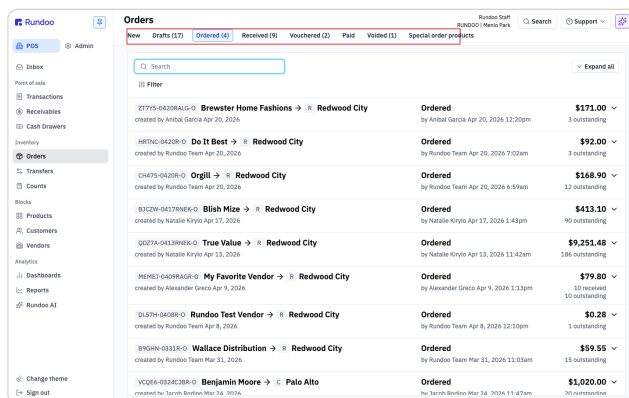

Step-by-step walkthrough ~3 min read Companion to the 2:27 video

You've spent years learning your shelves: what moves, what sits, and what always seems to run dry on a Friday afternoon. A purchase order is just how you tell a vendor to send more. Rundoo handles the paperwork behind it, so you can spend less time with a clipboard and more time behind the counter. This guide walks you through building one PO from a blank screen to a saved draft, ready to send whenever you are.

WHERE IT ALL LIVES

The Orders tab

In POS mode, click Orders in the left sidebar. Every purchase order you've ever started lives here. Along the top is a strip of tabs that follows a PO through its whole life, left to right: New, Drafts, Ordered, Received, Vouchered, Paid, and Voided. Each tab carries a live count of how many POs are sitting in that stage. We're starting all the way at the left, in New, to build one from scratch.

The tabs across the top of Orders are the life of a PO, from New on the left to Paid and Voided on the right.

DO THIS

Build a draft, step by step

1

Open a new order

Clicking Orders lands you on the New tab by default. This is the order builder: Order from on the left, a product search across the middle, running totals on the right, and a row of action buttons along the bottom. Most of it looks greyed out right now, and that's on purpose. One choice wakes it up.

2

Pick your vendor

First things first: tell Rundoo who you're ordering from. Click Order from, start typing a vendor name, and choose from your list. The moment you pick one, the rest of the form unlocks. The side panel fills in with the Order method (how the PO will reach the vendor later), Ship to (defaults to your current location), and a Requested delivery date (defaults to ASAP). Don't see the vendor you want? They probably haven't been added yet, and you can create them on the Vendors page.

Pick a vendor under Order from and the whole builder comes to life: side-panel fields, product search, and the action buttons at the bottom.

Add what you need by hand

Click into Search for a product and start typing. Rundoo matches on name, SKU, or vendor SKU. Set a count with the stepper and click Add, or drop the line on first and type the number into its QUANTITY cell. Got a scanner at the counter? Scanning a barcode drops the matching product straight onto the cart.

Each line shows COST, QUANTITY, and a running SUBTOTAL. Cost defaults to the product's vendor cost. Click edit under it to override for this order (say a contract price or a one-off deal), and click add note on a line to leave the vendor a note like "substitute OK."

Every line carries its cost, quantity, and subtotal. Use edit to change the cost for this PO, and add note to leave the vendor a line-level note.

Let Rundoo suggest the quantities

Here's where Rundoo saves you the guesswork. Instead of building the whole list from memory, click Generate order in the side panel. Rundoo looks at what you've been selling and what's on your shelves and proposes a full restock, filling the cart with suggested items and quantities.

Two methods sit behind that button, and you pick one per vendor. Predictive forecasts from last year's sales for this same stretch of the calendar, so the season is baked in. It's the natural fit where velocity matters. Min/Max is simpler: when a product drops below the minimum you set, Rundoo tops it back up to the maximum. Either way, you stay in charge. Review and tweak every line before you move on.

Save it as a draft

When the order looks right but you're not ready to send it, click Save draft at the bottom right. The PO leaves the builder and lands on the Drafts tab, safe to pick back up whenever you like. That's the whole job for this video. In the next one, From Draft to Ordered, we pick this draft up and send it off to the vendor.

The screenshot shows the Rundoos PO builder interface. On the left, there's a sidebar with a button labeled "Select shipment (1)". The main area has a header "Order notes optional" and a text input field. Below the input field, there are two buttons: "Void" and "Save draft". The "Save draft" button is highlighted with a red box and a red circle with the number 2. To the right of the input field, there are labels for "Subtotal" and "Order total". At the bottom right, there's a button labeled "Re" (partially visible) which is also highlighted with a red box and a red circle with the number 3. A red circle with the number 1 is positioned above the "Void" button.

Good to know

- Click Save draft or Order and nothing happens? You're almost certainly missing a vendor or a product line. Rundoos won't save an empty PO, and it won't nag you about it either, so give those two a quick check.
- Any cost you edit or note you add on a line rides along on the PO the vendor receives, so a "substitute OK" note lands right where they'll see it.
- Generate order leans on your sales history, so a brand-new product with no track record may get skipped. Add those lines by hand and you're set.
- This is your practice store. Build and save all the drafts you like. Nothing leaves the building until you send it.
